25X1

PRESENT: Mr. Dulles, General Cabell, Messrs. Becker, Helms, Houston, [REDACTED]

Mr. Dulles:

a. Noted he had received a call from Mr. Kirkpatrick who indicated that Dr. Howard Rusk would be in Washington on Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday of this week for a series of conferences prior to departure for Korea in connection with rehabilitation of wounded U.S. Military personnel. It was Kirkpatrick's suggestion that someone from the DD/P area get in touch with Rusk. Mr. Helms undertook to follow through on this and DDCI noted he would be available on Thursday afternoon to attend a conference with Dr. Rusk.

b. Stated he had discussed the loss of [REDACTED] with Gen. Cabell and it was Gen. Cabell's belief that [REDACTED] mission was [REDACTED]

Mr. Becker (Cont'd.)

d. Referred to his comment at the Deputies' Meeting on 23 January that there was a feeling of watchful waiting throughout the intelligence orbit in regard to the world situation and noted that (1) this feeling still prevailed; (2) the possibility still remained that the ChiComs might start an offensive in mid-February; (3) therefore, this should be born in mind in the conduct of

[REDACTED]

e. Undertook to prepare a paper for DDCI and General Cabell in regard to the recommendations contained in the Brownell report.

S-2-4-53

Mr. Houston:

a. Noted that the President had authorized the Director of Central Intelligence to award the National Security Medal and stated that it was his understanding that General Smith felt that this Medal should be awarded for (1) valor; (2) distinguished service. [REDACTED] noted that this was correct and, in fact, the Director had indicated that (1) the Medal awarded for valor should bear a palm to distinguish it from an award for distinguished service; (2) he (the Director) desired to see the "mock up" of the Medal before it was cast.

b. Noted that the bill from the [REDACTED] lawyer ($2,000.00) who represented [REDACTED] had been received. DDCI authorized payment from unvouchered funds.
